

A marionette

Even if it tries to move its hands and feet

A marionette is a marionette

It wants to cut the strings that control even its heart, and walk freely

You can always hear a laughing voice

When the devil lies hidden backstage

And suddenly the marionettes

begin to caper

Even if they fall, they stand up and dance

In moonlight

Take in the moonlight again tonight
And they go into the euphoric world
Even if she breathes in the smell of
This man entirely,
She can't swallow it down to her heart
The eyes of this man pierce every corner
Of the naked body of a woman projected by Moonlight
We fall into the overlapping depths

A terrestrial globe

I spill tears on a terrestrial globe

I make a river

I make a lake

I make the sea

Toward the endless space

I become the bird

I become the fish

I run through a terrestrial globe

Turn around, Turn around,

And it is a terrestrial globe

No matter where I go it is unending

The world is there
